1 - Mr. Long

Re New York letter to Bureau dated 5/27/69.

Your observations and recommendations in re communication are not sufficient to discontinue efforts to locate and interview [redacted] in order to fully resolve all aspects of this matter. The fact that you are led to the conclusion that a mentally unstable person may have written the letter and the presence of a number of companies at the same address with the same telephone number are not valid reasons in and of themselves for discontinuing efforts to identify and interview writer of letter. Ascertain if there is an individual of that name connected with the [redacted] and interview him, or, if no person of such name is associated with the Company, interview appropriate officials including personnel officers and conduct any other such logical inquiries in an effort to identify the writer if possible. Unless some compelling reasons exist to the contrary not known to the Bureau, handle this matter immediately.

You must bear in mind at all times that all leads and information in this case must be thoroughly resolved through logical investigation.

Advise the Bureau no later than June 9, 1969, of your efforts to resolve this matter.
